MAN, WOMAN JAILED AFTER HECTIC NIGHT

Twenty-five Buck Shot Are Taken From Man Arrested
In Doctor's Office.

Two persons, one a woman, are being held in the county jail and another arrest is expected within the near future, following an exciting night Wednesday for the sheriff's department and Mr. and Mrs. James Swearingen, Route 5. Those in jail are listed as Miranda Hill, 311 Hill, Pearl Alley and Lewis White, Circleville.

The excitement started when Mr. Swearingen returned home from a meeting in Circleville about 11:30 Wednesday night. He received a telephone call from Herbert Melvin, a neighbor, stating a machine was parked at his orchard and since Mr. Swearingen had lost about 60 chickens during the late summer he suspected them as hen house raiders.

FIRE TWO SHOTS
Swearingen picked up his shotgun and started for the orchard finding the car, and waited for the return of the occupants.

Two persons came through the orchard and Mr. Swearingen emptied both barrels of his shotgun at them. They cried out and ran, dropping some chickens and about a bushel of apples, Swearingen says.

The sheriff was then notified and John Ward, deputy, went to the Swearingen home but the alleged thieves had fled. Sheriff Davis, aided by a description of the parties drove down Western-ave and met Miranda Hill going south. She was covered with burrs, wearing a night gown, torn stockings and a man's shoe and a woman's shoe. Digging the excitement she had lost her shoe and stopped at a farm house on her journey to town to borrow a shoe which was a man's shoe and the sheriff.

WOUNDS DRESSED
White was arrested by the Chillicothe police when he went to a doctor to have his wounds dressed. Twenty-five shots were picked from his right arm, according to the deputies.

White had walked most of the way to Chillicothe, resting for a short time in a barn. His wounds were dressed the second time by Dr. G. W. Heffner.

It was at first believed the parties were hiding in the field next to the Swearingen orchard, and a group of farmers searched the field for injured, before they learned from the sheriff's department that two of the parties were apprehended.

GIRL FEATURED IN NEW DUNTON BOOK

James Gerald Dunton, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Dunton of S. Court, has written a new book, "A Maid and a Million Men". He calls it the "candid confessions of Leo- nard Canwick censored indiscreetly by James G. Dunton." The book is of a very different type from his other three publications.

In the story Leona Canwick changes places and clothes with her twin brother, who is a buck rivate in the army, so he can get away from camp to visit his fiancée. Unexpected sailing orders are received and away she goes with his regiment to France.

Now consider the bold, embarrassing adventures that befell Leona. She played the heroine in a man's show, she bunked with hard-boiled buddies, hoodwinked the general staff, was wooed by a French felle, fought the battles of Paris and Cognac Hill and lived to tell the tale.

Jim says there is no war in his book-but lots of army.

CONDITION SERIOUS

Mrs. Sarah Moore, is critically ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Avery Purcell, 935 S. Pickaway-st. She has been bedfast for two and a half years, the result of broken hip. She is 80 years old and a widow of a Civil war veteran, Andy Moore.

HEALTH FAILING

J. W. Adkins, probate judge, is notified by the superintendent of the Athens state hospital that Mrs. E. Frye, formerly of Pickaway-co. and an inmate in the institution, is failing in her general health. Miss Frye was committed to the hospital July 10, 1889.

Staggers "400"

Newport's gilded society asked itself, "What is going to happen next?" when it learned that Mrs. Paul Fitzsimons, smartest of the smart, had accepted the Republican nomination for alderman from the exclusive Fifth ward. She is first woman among Newport's "400" to enter politics and is the mother of William H. Vanderbilt, candidate for state senator from Portsmouth, Va.

WASHINGTON ROTARY HOST

Forty-six Members of Local Club Attend Inter-City
Meeting Wednesday

Washington C. H. Rotarians were hosts to Rotarians from Lancaster, Xenia, Greenfield, Chillicothe, Lebanon and Circleville at an inter-city meeting held at the K. of P. hall there Wednesday night. Over 250 were seated at the banquet table to enjoy the dinner served by the ladies of the Methodist church. Forty-six of the 48 members of the Circleville club were in attendance.

Dr. Hughey, president of the Washington club, acted as toastmaster and naby did his job. District Governor Bob Hughes, and the presidents of the visiting clubs were introduced. Then Wilbre-force College Choral Society and quarter-entertained the Rotarians. With a chorus of 30 trained voices they sang to their heart's content and were given much applause.

Then came Malini, the master magician, who performs with dexterity. Having performed before the King of England, President McKinley, President Roosevelt, President Harding and President Coolidge, he held the Rotarians spellbound with his tricks. He worked with ease and the many tricks that he did will never be solved even though he worked with eight Rotarians, "as his assistants. How he took money out of the lemon or the egg will remain a mystery to all who were privileged to watch him.

Enrollment in the soils classes being conducted by U. C. Roush, of Ohio State university, was closed Wednesday night with 45 students enrolled. The classes are being held in the centralized school houses at Jackson, Pickaway and Satercreek-towns. The classes have completed their third lesson.

Each class will organize a basketball team and they hope to join some conference.

Sometime in November, J. A. Slipper, soils specialist of Ohio State university, will make field trips with the classes and at the conclusion of the lessons the students will be taken for a trip to the limestone quarries at Marble Cliff, near Columbus, to study liming materials.

NEW ENGLAND HEARS SMITH BATTLE CRY

Governor Leaves Enthusiasm
Behind Him After Boston
Speech.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 25.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith left a ringing cry against what he called the reactionary element of the Republican party at the capital of this vital electoral state and set out today for a twelve hour campaign through Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The Democratic nominee carried with him the memory of a great reception as he started on his second phase of the all-important eastern seaboard battle.

His Boston appearance was an astounding and pleasant experience from which his friends drew deductions that he could carry the state. The Boston newspapers, Republican and Democratic, compared the reception to that of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh whose demonstration was up to this time unsurpassed.

SAVED FROM THROGS

The fact that he was saved from the mobs of over-enthusiastic and curious crowds was a miracle at which even the Boston police force marveled. They tried to protect him and Mrs. Smith during the parade and they were equally unsuccessful in their efforts to curb the seething throngs at the arena where he spoke.

Twenty persons were in the hall with sandwiches nine hours before he spoke and six hours later the outside crowds began bulging doors. Many suffered minor cuts and bruises. Half a dozen women fainted. Nearby hospitals reported there were no serious casualties.

In his speech last night at which 13,000 persons were massed in the arena and 17,000 more were connected at two halls by long speaker cables to say nothing of the others who burst through the police cordon and crashed unsuccessfully against the doors, Smith made his answer to the Madison Square Garden speech of Herbert Hoover, his Republican opponent. He took as his text Hoover's promise to "use words to convey the meaning, not hide it."

ATTACKS HOOVER STAND

The candidate contended Hoover's attitude on farm relief, prohibition and water power was "a use of language to cover up something." He quoted as advocates of his platform upon these issues, former President Roosevelt's gubernatorial campaigns in New York.

The nominee again called attention to chairmans Work's renewal of the Sinclair Salt Creek Oil lease signed when Work was secretary of the Interior last February.

Taking up the water power development as the first issue to be discussed, the Governor asserted that not only was Hoover's acceptance speech vague on the subject, but his August 13 speech at Los Angeles also failed to express frankly the Republican candidates position.

If Hoover classed him as a "State Socialist" because he stood for governmental ownership and control of public water power sites, he added, then Charles Evans Hughes, the late Theodore Roosevelt, Owen D. Young and other leading Republicans "Also are Socialists." They stood with him on that issue, he asserted.

BLACK BRANTS ARE VISITORS AT LAKE

GRAF STARTS WEST TONIGHT

Giant Zeppelin Postpones Trip
Because of Poor Visibility
For Watchers.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 25.—Weather bound, the long gray shape of the Graf Zeppelin swayed alongside her smaller sister-ship the Los Angeles in the hangar here today awaiting until nightfall her departure in a flight over the middle west.

With a ground crew of 450 men manning her spider ropes, preparatory to pulling the giant airship out of the hangar, cross winds caused postponement of the Zeppelin's start at 9 o'clock last night. It was feared that the airship's bag might be torn as she was hauled out of shelter.

Later at 10 p.m., bad weather reports from over the Great Lakes area caused Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, definitely to postpone the flight until tonight. These conditions would make it difficult for many of the cities over which the Zeppelin plans to pass to see the big craft and visibility would be so poor as to spoil the trip for passengers and guests.

Dr. Eckener emphasized that the Zeppelin could have taken off under the forecast weather conditions. The flight will be a non-stop one, it was announced. At first it had been planned to moor the ship at St. Louis, but that was abandoned.

Two more persons were added to the passenger list late last night. They were Lieut. Commander Hugh V. Wiley, acting commander of the Los Angeles, and Chief Radio Operator R. W. Copeland, also of the Los Angeles.

When the Graf Zeppelin returns to the station Friday night, work will be rushed to prepare her for her return flight to Germany. Dr. Eckener said he hoped to leave for Friedrichshafen Wednesday.

Hospital Bond Issue

(An Editorial.)
Pumpkin Show is over and the day of election is near at hand. It is time to consider the advisability of Circleville voting a bond issue to raise money to build a hospital. It is generally understood that our late public spirited citizen, Mr. Frank Berger, left a considerable amount of money for this purpose, but the availability of this sum need not be considered in a discussion of the merits of the City Hospital.

There are many benefits which would accrue to the community if the City had a modern, up-to-date, thoroughly equipped hospital with 15 to 20 beds. The advantages which would accrue from such an institution are so universally recognized that they need not be stated here at this time, if at all. The objections to such an institution, if there are any that are sound and reasonable, should be presented to the voters at once. They can be weighed against the advantages or they may be dismissed as unsound.

In all the towns around Circleville hospitals exist and their abandonment is not thought of for their many advantages are so apparent. The physicians of this city and county have for many years been handicapped by the want of such an institution, as the hospital bond issue will provide. They have been unable to render their best services to the community for the lack of a medical center where all the modern diagnostic instruments of precision are at their disposal. No one physician can equip himself with the many expensive instruments which every modern hospital possesses. In fact this is not done in the cities. There, medical men have access to one or more hospitals and are thus saved the expense of maintaining them personally which with the majority of physicians is prohibitive. This much may be said for the physicians, for their direct benefit is equally valuable to their patients. As to the advantages for the community at large there is no question.

HOOVER HAS CONTROVERSY BEFORE HIM

"Socialistic" Attack On Smith
Stirs Up Horner's Nest In Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Herbert Hoover found today he had stirred up a controversy that probably will dominate the campaign until its close 12 days hence when he denounced Governor Alfred E. Smith's prohibition modification, farm relief and water power proposals as "state socialism."

The Republican candidate today was studying Smith's Boston speech last night in which the Democratic candidate ridiculed the "socialistic" attack. He likewise gave his attention to the harsh criticism of his Madison Square Garden speech by Senator George Norris of Nebraska, independent Republican leader, who has declared for Smith.

MAY CHANGS PLANS

Hoover was considering whether the fusillade will make it necessary for him to take up the issue again on his own behalf in the final campaign speech he will make at St. Louis on November 2 on his way west. He announced last night he would speak on farm relief and inland waterways chiefly, with some attention to other issues, in that address. The Republican candidate may decide to ignore Smith's reply. He has declined heretofore to be drawn into any debate.

Smith, it appears, is going to emphasize the "socialistic" attack. He has been waiting since the outset of the campaign for a tangible target, for Hoover to say something directly about his program. He now has it. He considers the last few days of a campaign the most important. He probably will use this ammunition to the limit, in a play for the "break" in the closing days. It revolves around his three leading issues.

DEPENDS ON SMITH

Whether Hoover says anything further may depend upon just how persistent his opponent becomes and what Norris says in his speech Saturday night, formally declaring for Smith.

The Nebraska senator's word carried weight with those who followed the late Senator LaFollette in 1924, especially in the northwest. He said Hoover's Madison Square Garden speech "slapped every Progressive minded man and woman in America in the face." He thereby raised the issue directly.

It gives Norris an immediate weapon beyond his general opposition to Hoover, which he will set forth in detail in his Saturday night speech.

The body checked with the description given by Panzram in his confession.

PLEADS GUILTY TO BAD CHECK CHARGE

Fisher has been confined in the county jail for three months and was released Wednesday upon settlement of the accounts.

The case was the outgrowth of a check given to the Circleville Motors Co. on June 24, 1928 for $3.97 on the Merchants and Farmers bank of Frankfort.

A minimum fine was given Fisher. The maximum fine for such an offense is $200 or imprisonment for not more than one year or more than three or both.

EAST-WEST FLIGHT MARK IS ITS GOAL

Last Reported Over Albuquerque,
N. M.—Ahead of
Time at Wichita.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, carrying Capt. C. S. D. Collier, and Harry Tucker, passed over Albuquerque at 9:10 a.m. (M.S.T.) today.

The plane, flying fast and low, passed over the main section of the town and headed west, army officers who had been watching for it, reported.

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, in which Harry Tucker, millionaire sportsman and Captain C. B. D. Collier, pilot are attempting to set a record for a non-stop flight from New York to Los Angeles, passed over Wichita shortly before five a.m. today. The plane is traveling faster than was expected as it was not due over Wichita until an hour or so later.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Somewhere high up over the mid-western prairies, the Lockheed-Vega monoplane "Yankee Doodle" sped today towards the Rockies and its greatest hazard today on an attempted non-stop flight from Atlantic to Pacific.

The trim white monoplane took off from Roosevelt field, L. I., yesterday at 4:15 p.m. at a terrific pace despite its heavy load of 320 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of engine oil.

Captain C. B. D. Collier, joint holder of the round-the-world speed record, was piloting the airplane, and Harry Tucker, Los Angeles sportsman, was passenger. The Yankee Doodle has a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour and can develop a maximum of 170.

Now the most famous of trans-continental racing veterans, the Yankee Doodle is making its third bid for an ocean-to-ocean record—not satisfied with already holding the west-to-east record attained when it sped from Los Angeles to New York in 38 hours and 58 minutes last August.

OHIO EXPOSITION GETS UNDER WAY

Products of State Are On Display—Donahay Opens
Big Exhibit.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25.—Ohioans looked at things here today that they probably never realized their state possessed, when the doors of the Ohio Progress Exposition, marking the state's 125th birthday, swung open at 11 a. m. for a 10-day show.

Interested parties from all parts of the state began trekking in this morning. The occasion, although much more significant, was comparable to Ohio's annual fair.

Governor Vic Donahey will open the show formally tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Today has been designated "Governor's Day."

Hundreds of products of Ohio factories and shops were in their places today and early spectators indicated by remarks that there was much development in the state that had reached outside ears before those of the home folks.

Giant machines stood proudly above the gathering and invited the awe of students of Ohio's industrial progress. Sundry lesser parts of the huge state machine occupied their corners. Everything from potato mashers to American Mohr airplanes were on the floor.

One exhibit which attracted early visitors was the "Iron Link"—the automatic printer telegraph machines on which news is sent to publications in scattered areas by press associations. It was something to behold, spectators opined—this machine that works like a typewriter and reproduces what it writes simultaneously in other cities of the world.

WOUNDS DRESSED

White was arrested by the Chillicothe police when he went to a doctor to have his wounds dressed. Twenty-five shots were picked from his right arm, according to the deputies.

White had walked most of the way to Chillicothe, resting for a short time in a barn. His wounds were dressed the second time by Dr. G. W. Heffner.

It was at first believed the parties were hiding in the field next to the Swearingen orchard, and a group of farmers searched the field for injured, before they learned from the sheriff's department that two of the parties were apprehended.

They have been unable to render their best services to the community for the lack of a medical center where all the modern diagnostic instruments of precision are at their disposal. No one physician can equip himself with the many expensive instruments which every modern hospital possesses. In fact this is not done in the cities. There, medical men have access to one or more hospitals and are thus saved the expense of maintaining them personally which with the majority of physicians is prohibitive. This much may be said for the physicians, for their direct benefit is equally valuable to their patients. As to the advantages for the community at large there is no question.

HOOVER HAS CONTROVERSY BEFORE HIM

"Socialistic" Attack On Smith
Stirs Up Hornet's Nest In Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Herbert Hoover found today he had stirred up a controversy that probably will dominate the campaign until its close 12 days hence when he denounced Governor Alfred E. Smith's prohibition modification, farm relief and water power proposals as "state socialism."

The Republican candidate today was studying Smith's Boston speech last night in which the Democratic candidate ridiculed the "socialistic" attack. He likewise gave his attention to the harsh criticism of his Madison Square Garden speech by Senator George Norris of Nebraska, independent Republican leader, who has declared for Smith.

MAY CHANGS PLANS

Hoover was considering whether the fusillade will make it necessary for him to take up the issue again on his own behalf in the final campaign speech he will make at St. Louis on November 2 on his way west. He announced last night he would speak on farm relief and inland waterways chiefly, with some attention to other issues, in that address. The Republican candidate may decide to ignore Smith's reply. He has declined heretofore to be drawn into any debate.

Smith, it appears, is going to emphasize the "socialistic" attack. He has been waiting since the outset of the campaign for a tangible target, for Hoover to say something directly about his program. He now has it. He considers the last few days of a campaign the most important. He probably will use this ammunition to the limit, in a play for the "break" in the closing days. It revolves around his three leading issues.

DEPENDS ON SMITH

Whether Hoover says anything further may depend upon just how persistent his opponent becomes and what Norris says in his speech Saturday night, formally declaring for Smith.

The Nebraska senator's word carried weight with those who followed the late Senator LaFollette in 1924, especially in the north-west. He said Hoover's Madison Square Garden speech "slapped every Progressive minded man and woman in America in the face." He thereby raised the issue directly.

It gives Norris an immediate weapon beyond his general opposition to Hoover, which he will set forth in detail in his Saturday night speech.

AFTER BOY SLAYER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25 — Detectives left for Washington D. C., today hoping to extradite Karl Panzran, who confessed to killing a newsboy here. The body of a lad found last August in marshlands near the river was exhumed yesterday and identified as Alexander Lussock, 14. The body checked with the description given by Panzran in his confession.

FINE SPEAKERS WILL BE HEARD

Democrats of County Will Have Rally In Memorial Hall Tonight.

The Democratic rally to be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Memorial hall will have some very prominent speakers on the program, including Mell G. Underwood, congressman from this district, Geo. S. Myers, democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, and Hon. Webster Huntington of Mt. Sterling, Ky., sent here by the democratic National Committee of Washington, D. C. The candidates for the county offices will also be presented and a splendid program is promised.

The Yellow Bud band is engaged to furnish the music for the occasion and a quartet is promised to render a few numbers before the meeting is called to order.

Many people throughout the co. are expected to attend this rally and it will probably be one of the largest meetings this year for Pickaway co. Everybody is invited to attend regardless of their politics.

PLEADS GUILTY TO BAD CHECK CHARGE

Carl M. Fisher, 20, of Frankfort, changed his plea from not guilty to guilty of passing a check without funds in common pleas court Wednesday and was fined $50 and costs amounting to $18.48 and must pay the value of the check.

Fisher has been confined in the county jail for three months and was released Wednesday upon settlement of the accounts.

The case was the outgrowth of a check given to the Circleville Motors Co. on June 24, 1928 for $3.97 on the Merchants and Farmers bank of Frankfort.

A minimum fine was given Fisher. The maximum fine for such an offense is $200 or imprisonment for not less than one year or more than three or both.

TWO WOMEN DIE IN CRASH

Automobile Struck By Special Train at Crossing Near Basil Wednesday.

LANCASTER, O., Oct. 25.—Mrs. Jennie Hill, mother of Asa Hill, an official of the Kresge co. at Detroit, died here early today, bringing to two the death toll in a grade-crossing crash near Basil late yesterday.

Mrs. Cora Forsythe, 58, of Carthage, Perry county, died during the night.

The two women were riding in a car driven by Mrs. Forsythe's daughter, Mrs. Cora Oberst Columbus, when the machine was struck by an inspection train on the old T. & O. C. railroad.

"Mrs. Oberst's two children, Olive, aged 3 1-2, and Patricia Ann, aged 18 months, were seriously injured.

Patricia Ann was dragged for several hundred feet and it was some time before she was found. Police said it was a miracle that she was not killed.

Mrs. Oberst apparently did not see or suspect the proximity of the train which was carrying T. & O. C. officials on their annual inspection trip.

Asa Hill only recently completed the building of a $100,000 home which was to have been occupied by his mother.

CROWD WITNESSES DEMONSTRATIONS

Approximately 60 persons gathered at the school house at Commercial Point Wednesday evening for the club achievement program of the Scioto-twp. farm bureau. The program was given by the Hardy Workers Clothing club of which Miss Vona LeMay is leader. The program consisted of demonstrations, musical selections and readings. E. A. Drake, assistant county agent, gave a short talk on A-H club work in the communities.

EAST-WEST FLIGHT MARK IS ITS GOAL

Last Reported Over Albuquerque, pue, N. M.—Ahead of
Time at Wichita.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle carrying Capt. C. S. D. Collyer and Harry Tucker, passed over Albuquerque at 9:10 a.m. (M.S.T.) today.

The plane, flying fast and low, passed over the main section of the town and headed west, army officers who had been watching for it, reported.

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, in which Harry Tucker, millionaire sportsman and Captain C. B. D. Collyer, pilot are attempting to set a record for a non-stop flight from New York to Los Angeles passed over Wichita shortly before five a.m. today. The plane is traveling faster than was expected as it was not due over Wichita until an hour or so later.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Somewhere high up over the mid-western prairies, the Lockheed-Vega monoplane "Yankee Doodle" sped today towards the Rockies and its greatest hazard today on an attempted non-stop flight from Atlantic to Pacific.

The trim white monoplane took off from Roosevelt Field, L. I., yesterday at 4:15 p.m. at a terrific pace despite its heavy load of 520 gallons of gasoline and 25 gallons of engine oil.

Captain C. B. D. Collyer, joint holder of the round-the-world speed record, was piloting the airplane, and Harry Tucker, Angeles sportsman, was passenger. The Yankee Doodle has a cruising speed of 125 miles an hour and can develop a maximum of 170.

Now the most famous of transcontinental racing veterans, the "Yankee Doodle" is making its third bid for an ocean-to-ocean record—not satisfied with already holding the west-to-east record attained when it sped from Los Angeles to New York in 18 hours and 58 minutes last August.

OHIO EXPOSITION GETS UNDER WAY

Products of State Are On Display—Donahay Opens
Big Exhibit.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25.—Ohioans looked at things here today that they probably never realized their state possessed, when the doors of the Ohio Progress Exposition, marking the state's 125th birthday day, swung open at 11 a. m. for 10-day show.

Interested parties from all parts of the state began trekking in this morning. The occasion, although much more significant, was comparable to Ohio's annual fair.

Governor Vic Donahay will open the show formally tonight at 8:15 o'clock. Today has been designated "Governor's Day."

Hundreds of products of Ohio factories and shops were in their places today and early spectators indicated by remarks that there was much development in the state that had reached outside ears before those of the home folks.

Giant machines stood proudly above the gathering and invited the awe of students of Ohio's industrial progress. Sundry lesser parts of the huge state machine occupied their corners. Everything from potato mashers to American Moth airplanes were on the floor.

One exhibit which attracted early visitors was the "Iron Mike"—the automatic printer telegraph machines on which news is sent to publications in scattered areas by press associations. It was something to behold, spectators opined—this machine that works like a typewriter and reproduces what it writes simultaneously in other cities of the world.

Rheumatism Among Afflictions That Vanished Quickly When the Marvelous Konjola Came.

MRS. H. AHRENS.

When Konjola comes illness vanishes and new health reigns. Konjola is a medicine of performance, not promises, and it is reasonable to believe that what this compound has done for others it will do for all who suffer. Those who are discouraged should read the statement by Mrs. R. Ahrens, 1104 Walbridge Avenue, Toledo, Ohio. Filled with happiness over her health restored, Mrs. Ahrens said:

"I want all the world to know what Konjola did for me, a discouraged, disheartened victim of stomach, liver, and kidney troubles, and rheumatism. I tried everything, and found only disappointment. At times my knees were so stiff I could not walk; indigestion caused intense gas and bloating; pains, poisons, stored up in my system undermined my general health, and I was at the very end of my string when Konjola was recommended.

"Too wonderful to believe were the results. Three bottles of this astonishing remedy, and I was completely restored to health. I have no pains, no rheumatism, no indigestion, and my kidneys and other organs function perfectly."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Mykrantz Pharmacy and by all the leading druggists in every town throughout this entire section.—Adv.

HERALD EDITORIAL AROUSES COMMENT

Story of "Jeb" Stuart Can Be Purchased, Correspondent Says.

An editorial concerning General "Jeb" Stuart in The Herald recently brought forth the following letter from Roy E. Cook, of Charleston, W. Va., who was presented with a copy of the editorial by E. M. Brown, of the same city, a former resident of Circleville.

The letter in part follows: "All that you recite concerning this soldier is true and more. But for your information I will say that his life has been covered in 'Stuarts Campaigns' by a most capable writer, a Mr. McClelland. This volume is now out of print, but a copy in good condition can be secured for about $7.00. The author was long a brilliant citizen of Louisville, Ky., a prominent member of the Sons of the Revolution, and died about 25 years ago. The volume is replete with references to the personal and military life of Stuart, with many maps, etc.

"There is no doubt that his life would be a good subject for General Maurice, a most able writer. Tate, in his Jackson, plays to popular readers and attempts to make fiction out of biography. Some of his statements are not based on facts and there is considerable imagination. But it is good reading if you do not mind the short, choppy sentences.

"Stuart in one of his 'genial' moments gave a distant kinsman a commission as a 'captain.' It happened to be a lady and the Federals captured her with this document. It led to a prison sentence and while therein she met a major in the Union army and they were married. Their son became late ambassador to Spain, Joseph Willard."

Evening Wraps Supply the Last Word in Elegance

By FRANCES PAGET
Copyright, 1922, by Women's Wear Magazine

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—More than usual concern is directed toward this year's evening wrap, for it has been revitalized more than any coat style. The sudden effort of designers to bring evening wrap styles to a point where they conform with dresses which have changed so radically in the last few years, and behind which coats lagged so amazingly, has resulted in an extremely diversified assortment of fashions, involving silhouette so seriously, both from the angles of length and width, that the sensitively fashionable woman will be aware of the outmoded straight, evenly cut silhouette of last year's coat.

Evening wraps have become so enamored of the irregularly lengthened hemline for its own sake that this feature can no longer be merely described as a practical adaptation to the prevailing fashion in dresses, but must be accounted for in independent terms.

One of the most significant signs of this emancipation is the fact that the shortened coat, which was so frequent an answer in the past to the problem presented by dresses, is negligible in current collections. This line is seen now only in the abbreviated hemline reserved for the front of wraps, elongated the back.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

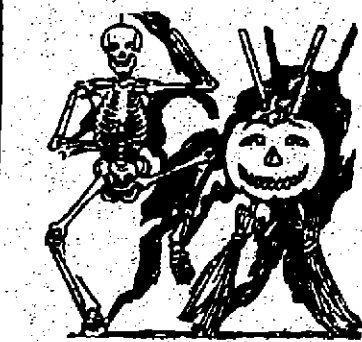

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

HOLDING PUBLIC OFFICE

When it comes to filling the smaller elective positions in our states, counties, and towns and cities, it is often difficult to persuade the right kind of people to accept these positions. They remark that they can't afford to leave their own work.

If people of the finest type generally get that point of view, our public life is sure to become decadent. It is a point of view that is shortsighted even from a personal viewpoint. The people who serve in public offices gain many advantages. They advertise themselves, and if they do well, they can usually obtain more profitable opportunities later on.

There are of course some people who are so tied up, by personal obligations, that they could not accept a public office. But the number so restricted is not large and most of us should be glad to take our turns as serving the people when asked to do so.

RESPECT YOUR BUSINESS

J. C. Penney says, "Others have no higher regard for your business than you have for it. Your regard for it is largely based upon our conception of its moral inherency. Business must be conducted upon the square to receive our entire moral support and respect. Right here is found the breakdown point and place of wreckage for many a promising concern. Because its management knew there was crookedness involved in its methods of conducting the business, their employees could not come to it with wholesomeness of mind and enthusiasm of heart. Their efforts were divided and their energies proved unavailing."

"But when a man brings to his daily task the full support of his moral personality, when he can tell others his problems as he looks them straight in the eye, assured that he has nothing to conceal, when he reaches the heights of success without being arrogant or puffed up, when he can look into the faces of his wife and children and know that they have an honest husband and father, when he possesses the consciousness that permits him to respect himself and compels others to regard him for his own personal worth then is such a man an exponent of business dignity."

THE CLOSED MIND

Many things are said by the college authorities to the assembling students at the beginning of fall term, which apply to the home folks. One of the suggestions made in such addresses was that of President Faunce of Brown University, who talked about the closed mind.

He complained of many people who present a stone wall of closed opinion on the questions of the day. Here in Circleville we all know people whose opinions are absolutely fixed on all questions, and who would give no consideration to any evidence tending to show that they were wrong. People of that kind have stopped growing. They need to go to school themselves even if they are 60 years old.

The above is not to mean that people should continually be changing their minds and forth between points of opinion. People naturally shy themselves with the views of their own personal type, and feel that public opinion of that general point of view will be apt to run the government. People who are concerned with looking back and forth between opposite opinions are the kind of people more useful than those whose minds are closed to all new evidence.

The religious people of former years were of the kind who would not listen to a single word of any new doctrine or new party, and they would not even consider the opposite party. Today there is more liberty. An intelligent person can see plenty of mistakes by his own party, and instances where the opposing party held views that were correct.

We need today more thinkers who would gladly supporting the party that on the whole looks best to them, yet insist that their own party leaders adhere to modern ideas of government. Perhaps after a few more campaigns where the politicians all talk over the radio, we shall get more of this broad minded analysis of politics.

IRON BARS DO NOT A PRISON MAKE

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgewood

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.
When Fennore Wilde, famous Broadway actor dies; his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an actor, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and a brilliant young surgeon, David Churchill, who is married. Her employer insults her and she resigns to accept the position of secretary to Dr. Churchill. During this time she had added to her list of friends Leonard's artist-uncle, Chester Quigg and his young daughter, Alice. One evening David Churchill admits he is in love with Janet and wants a divorce from his wife. Janet tells him she does not love him, and because of offensive comments about her made by his wife, she will not see him again. Chester Quigg asks Janet to live at the studio and help manage his mother, a domineering creature with strange illusions. At the same time Janet's brother, Frank, arrives, home, broke and in debt. Leonard Quigg gives Frank $1,000 to pay off the gambling debt but makes him promise not to tell Janet. She moves into the Quigg home and that evening her difficulties with old Mrs. Quigg begin. After dinner, the first successful meal since the arrival of Chester's mother, the doorbell rings. A uniformed ambulance attendant stands at the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX.
"RING for an ambulance?" Janet re-echoed. Of course not!"

"Party by the name of Quigg?" he man insisted. "Telephoned and said an ambulance was needed at once."

"It was quite a mistake," Alice interrupted gravely. "Someone had phoned for an ambulance, but it is not wanted now, and we are very sorry to have troubled you." "What is it?" asked Janet puzzled. "Who telephoned for an ambulance?"

"Grandmamma must have done it," Alice explained. "That's the fourth time. Whenever she feels neglected she phones for an ambulance. She ought to be in a sanitarium, but Daddy won't hear of it."

There was a sound of a cane tapping, and Mrs. Quigg came belligerently into the studio.

"Why did you telephone for an ambulance?" Janet asked mildly.

"To begin with, young woman," Mrs. Quigg retorted with tremendous dignity, "when you speak to me, kindly address me as 'Ma'am.' It's more fitting. And I did send for an ambulance to take that nasty dog of yours away. I know I am unloved and unwanted, but on this is the first time that an ungrateful family has asked me to live in a kennel. Humble I may be, and long suffering, but this is a little too much."

Janet laughed. It was fortunate that she could, for although old Mrs. Quigg was in a way as amusing as a pet monkey, she was intensely trying on the nerves.

"I don't see how you are going to be happy with us," Alice said contritely. "I shall feel terrible if you aren't."

"Don't you worry about me," Janet reassured her, feeling that she really had a job that was going to exercise all her tact and ingenuity.

One cold evening in the middle of March, Janet was writing letters in her own room. Her telephone rang and she heard David Churchill's voice on the wire.

"I am so low that I just have to see you," he pleaded. "What have you said, Janet, about a girl any work today if I let you know what your balance was. You have all the first-of-the-month expense to meet, and no money at hand. The moment Mrs. Pettibone Shady's portrait is finished, you will get a check for three thousand—and then you talk about not getting on with it. You only have about another three sittings. Use some common sense."

"So?" Mrs. Pettibone-Shady was not requested to drown herself, and, at the appointed hour she breezed into the studio and took up her accustomed pose.

"I want my son to sit to you," she rattled away. "John is always so busy, as he has recently become his father's partner, but I made him promise to run away from the ticker for an hour. He's coming here to take me to lunch, and then you can see him, Mr. Quigg."

Janet, who had overheard this, held her breath. She was afraid that Chester Quigg might refuse the commission, and his expenses were enormous. However, her lecture seemed to have penetrated, for he murmured something about it being very interesting.

Janet decided that Mr. John Pettibone-Shady, when he arrived to take his mother to lunch, was far from being interesting. He was tall and not bad looking, but he seemed extremely conscious of the fact that he was already a partner in his father's firm of stockbrokers, and that he was about to purchase a seat on the Exchange, and all this before he was twenty-seven!

On the other hand, Mr. John Pettibone-Shady seemed to find the pretty girl whom he met in Chester Quigg's studio, of more than usual interest, because he delayed his departure, pretending to be occupied in examining the nearly completed portrait of his mother.

"Would it be possible for me to sit to Mr. Quigg in the early morning, as I must be in Wall Street not later than five minutes to ten?" he asked Janet.

And before he left he had arranged to have his portrait done the sittings to take place at half past eight on stated mornings.

"That pompous young prig felt for you," Chester Quigg bellowed his laughter when they were alone. "You'll probably marry him and have an apartment on Park Avenue, and a pearl necklace, and everything. But see what I'll do to him on canvas!"

"I thought him a very harmless young man, and he isn't his father's rich," Janet smiled. "It is nice of you to let your imagination run away with you."

"You'll probably marry him and have an apartment on Park Avenue, and a pearl necklace, and everything. But see what I'll do to him on canvas!"

THEATRES

THRILLING AIR FILM

"Across the Atlantic," starring Monte Blue and Edna Murphy is featured at the Grand tonight.

It is the thrilling tale of an airman who forsakes home, brother, father and wife to fight the wars in the air. He brings down a couple of planes from the Red Knight's division. He comes down himself in a burning parachute and is given up for lost. He loses his memory and eight years later returns.

A Fox News and an F. B. O. comedy are also on the bill.

AMAZING CONTRASTS

Amazing contrasts incorporated in a logical story that grips, with outstanding performances by a great aggregation of players, makes Paramount's "Forgotten Faces" which opened at the Metropolitan theatre last night, an exceptional motion picture.

The production is billed as an all-star special and it is. Clive Brook, Mary Brian, Bacalanova, William Powell, Fred Kohler and Jack Lunden head the imposing list of talent in the cast. The story interest, unusual sets, vivid contrasts and dramatic value of the production entitle it to the rating of a special in the most complimentary sense of that term.

HAS JUDGE ROLE

William Humphrey, the professional "Napoleon" of a dozen stage and screen productions, plays a prominent part, that of judge, in the De Mille Studio production of "Chicago," which comes to the Chifftona theatre Thursday.

Humphrey made his reputation in drama as an impersonator of Napoleon, in which role he first entered pictures. He is wearing the robes of justice for the second time in "Chicago," having played such a part in De Mille's big production, "The Volga Boatman."

Phyllis Haver is seen in the dynamic characterization of Rose Hart, the "jazz singer," who gets away with murder. Victor Varconi plays opposites her, while Robert Edison, May Robson, T. Roy Barnes, Virginia Bradford and Julia Faye also appear prominently in the cast. Frank Urson directed and Lenore J. Coffee prepared the adaptation from Maurine Watkins' stage play.

CAMPAIGN LOG

OCTOBER 25, 1936

(By UNITED PRESS)

Governor Alfred E. Smith in his Boston speech, declared that the charge of "State Socialism" made by Herbert Hoover, was subterfuge and camouflage against progressive welfare and legislation. He will continue his New England tour today.

Herbert Hoover's speaking plans on his trip to Palo Alto, Calif., where he will vote on election day included Cumberland, Md., Louisville, Ky. and St. Louis. The Republican nominee, planned to leave Washington Nov. 1.

Charles Evans Hughes, speaking for Hoover in Chicago, extolled the reduction of the public debt and income taxes under Republican administration and said Smith had become "reckless" in his criticism of Republican financial administration.

Senator George W. Morris, in Portland, Ore., definitely announced that he endorses Smith for the presidency because "for a progressive there is no other place to land except in the Smith camp."

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or cold pains—or other suffering. IRON BARS DO NOT A PRISON MAKE

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgeelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

WHEN Fenimore Wilde, famous Broadway actor dies, his young and pretty daughter, Janet, obtains a job with John Montague, theatrical impresario, while her brother, Frank, an idler, goes South. Janet makes friends with Leonard Quigg, a temperamental musician who loves her, and a brilliant young surgeon, David Churchill, who is married. Her employer insults her and she resigns to accept the position of secretary to Dr. Churchill. During this time she had added to her list of friends Leonard's artist-uncle, Chester Quigg and his young daughter, Alice. One evening David Churchill admits he is in love with Janet and wants a divorce from his wife. Janet tells him she does not love him, and because of offensive comments about her made by his wife, she and Leonard Quigg ask Janet to live at the will not see him again. Chester Quigg, a domineering creature with strange illusions. At the same time Janet's brother, Frank, arrives home, broke and in debt. Leonard Quigg gives Frank $1,000 to pay off the gambling debt but makes him promise not to tell. She moves into the Quigg home and that evening her difficulties with old Mrs. Quigg begin. After dinner, the first successful meal since the arrival of Chester's mother, the doorbell rings. A uniformed ambulance attendant stands at the door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIX.

"RING for an ambulance?" Janet re-echoed. Of course not!

"Party by the name of Quigg?" the man insisted. "Telephoned and said an ambulance was needed at once."

"It was quite a mistake," Alice interrupted gravely. "Someone did 'phone for an ambulance, but it is not wanted now, and we are very sorry to have troubled you."

"What is it?" asked Janet puzzled. "Who telephoned for an ambulance?"

"Grandmother must have done it," Alice explained. "That's the fourth time. Whenever she feels neglected she phones for an ambulance. She ought to be in a sanatorium, but Daddy won't hear of it."

There was a sound of a cane tapping, and Mrs. Quigg came belligerently into the studio.

"Why did you telephone for an ambulance?" Janet asked mildly.

"To begin with, young woman," Mrs. Quigg retorted with tremendous dignity, "when you speak to me, kindly address me as 'Ma'am.' It's more fitting. And I did send for an ambulance to take that nasty dog of yours away. I know I am unloved and unwanted, but this is the first time that an ungrateful family has asked me to live in a kennel. Humble I may be, and long suffering, but this is a little too much."

Janet laughed. It was fortunate that she could, for although old Mrs. Quigg was in a way as amusing as a pet monkey, she was intensely trying on the nerves.

"I don't see how you are going to be happy with us," Alice said contritely. "I shall feel terrible if you aren't."

"Don't you worry about me," Janet reassured her, feeling that she really had a job that was going to exercise all her tact and ingenuity.

One cold evening in the middle of March, Janet was writing letters in her own room. Her telephone rang and she heard David Churchill's voice on the wire.

"I am so low that I just have to see you," he pleaded. "What was that you said, Janet, about a girl hiding from a man so that he built up an impossible image of her? You are probably far less attractive than I think you are—so can't you see me and destroy the illusion?"

But Janet was not to be beguiled by this.

"I know I talked like that," she admitted, "but it is not practical in your case. I had no idea that your wife would be jealous of me, and I am not going to stir up any matrimonial trouble."

"You can't," he said with bitter humor. "It's stirred up already."

"Why can't you forget me?" she reasoned with him. "I won't do you any good to see me, and I would think so much more of you if you would realize that your work is vastly more important to you than I am."

She got rid of him at last, and then began to blame herself. What a fool she had been, she accused herself, for not realizing that David had been attracted by her from the first.

But life at the studio was too hurried to permit introspection. Chester Quigg was in constant trouble, and it was second nature on Janet's part to try and straighten out his difficulties. He was always more anxious to give his day to something that amused him, than, for example, to get on with a portrait which bored him but which meant a big check.

At the end of March, Chester was engaged in painting the lovely wife of a very rich stockbroker. It was a gorgeous morning, and Chester had made up his mind that he was going to sketch Janet.

"But you have an appointment with Mrs. Pettibone-Shady at eleven," she reminded him.

"Telephone to her!" he bellowed. "Tell the woman I died last night, and my last request was that she would never get her face recorded on canvas. Ring her up and beg her to drown herself."

"The first of April is unpleasantly near," Janet said quietly.

"Some April fool business?" he asked.

"Rent and telephone, and a few other bills," Janet went on. "You asked me to take care of your check book, and you wouldn't do any work today if I let you know what your balance was. You have all the first-of-the-month expenses to meet, and no money at hand. The moment Mrs. Pettibone-Shady's portrait is finished, you will get a check for three thousand—and then you talk about not getting on with it. You only have about another three sittings. Use some common sense."

So Mrs. Pettibone-Shady was not requested to drown herself, and at the appointed hour she breezed into the studio and took up her accustomed pose.

"I want my son to sit to you," she rattled away. "John is always so busy, as he has recently become his father's partner, but I made him promise to run away from the tacker for an hour. He's coming here to take me to lunch, and then you can see him, Mr. Quigg."

Janet, who had overheard this, held her breath. She was afraid that Chester Quigg might refuse the commission, and his expenses were enormous. However, her lecture seemed to have penetrated, for he murmured something about it being very interesting.

Janet decided that Mr. John Pettibone-Shady, when he arrived to take his mother to lunch, was far from being interesting. He was tall, and not bad looking, but he seemed extremely conscious of the fact that he was already a partner in his father's firm of stockbrokers, and that he was about to purchase a seat on the Exchange, and all this before he was twenty-seven!

On the other hand, Mr. John Pettibone-Shady seemed to find the pretty girl whom he met in Chester Quigg's studio of more than usual interest, because he delayed his departure, pretending to be occupied in examining the nearly completed portrait of his mother.

"Would it be possible for me to sit to Mr. Quigg in the early morning, as I must be in Wall Street not later than five minutes to ten?" he asked Janet.

And before he left he had arranged to have his portrait done the sittings to take place at half past eight on stated mornings.

"That pompous young prig fell for you," Chester Quigg bellowed his laughter when they were alone. "You'll probably marry him and have an apartment on Park Avenue, and a pearl necklace, and everything. But see what I'll do to him on canvas!"

"I thought him a very harmless young man, and it isn't his fault," he rich," Janet smiled. "It is nice of you to let your imagination run away with you."

"Across the Atlantic," starring Monte Blue and Edna Murphy is featured at the Grand tonight.

It is the thrilling tale of an airman who forsakes home, brother, father and wife to fight the wars in the air. He brings down a couple of planes from the Red Knight's division. He comes down himself in a burning parachute and is given up for lost. He loses his memory and eight years later returns.

A Fox News and an F. B. O. comedy are also on the bill.

AMAZING CONTRASTS

Amazing contrasts incorporated in a logical story that grips, with outstanding performances by a great aggregation of players, makes Paramount's "Forgotten Faces" which opened at the Metropolitan theatre last night, an exceptional motion picture.

The production is billed as an all-star special and it is. Clive Brook, Mary Brian, Baclanova, William Powell, Fred Kohler and Jack Luden head the imposing list of talent in the cast. The story interest, unusual sets, vivid contrasts and dramatic value of the production entitle it to the rating of a special in the most complimentary sense of that term.

HAS JUDGE ROLE

William Humphrey, the professional "Napoleon" of a dozen stage and screen productions, plays a prominent part, that of judge, in the De Mille Studio production of "Chicago," which comes to the Cliftona theatre Thursday.

Humphrey made his reputation in drama as an impersonator of Napoleon, in which role he first entered pictures. He is wearing the robes of justice for the second time in "Chicago," having played such a part in De Mille's big production, "The Volga Boatman."

Phyllis Haver is seen in the dynamic characterization of Roxie Hart, the "jazz slayer," who gets away with murder. Victor Varconi plays opposites her, while Robert Edeson, May Robson, T. Roy Barnes, Virginia Bradford and Julia Faye also appear prominently in the cast. Frank Urson directed and Lenore J. Coffee prepared the adaptation from Maurine Watkins' stage play.

CAMPAIGN LOG

OCTOBER 25, 1928

(By UNITED PRESS)

Governor Alfred E. Smith in his Boston speech, declared that the charge of "State Socialism" made by Herbert Hoover, was subterfuge and camouflage against progressive welfare and legislation. He will continue his New England tour today.

Herbert Hoover's speaking plans on his trip to Palo Alto, Calif., where he will vote on election day included Cumberland, Md., Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis. The Republican nominee planned to leave Washington Nov. 1.

Charles Evans Hughes, speaking for Hoover in Chicago, extolled the reduction of the public debt and income taxes under Republican administration and said Smith had become "reckless" in his criticism of Republican financial administration.

Senator George W. Morris, in Portland, Ore., definitely announced that he endorses Smith for the presidency because "for a progressive there is no other place to land except in the Smith camp."

Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee, continued to Columbus, Ohio, on a barnstorming tour, declaring that the only campaign issue is continued prosperity of the American people.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1928, by Hoyic, Jr.

It has been said of a sound preemptive or shut-out bid that if defeated it saves game at small expense by preventing the opponents from showing the suit that would have produced game between the combined hands. This principle is well illustrated by the following hand:

Hearts—Q, J, 7, 6, 2
Clubs—none
Diamonds—9, 7, 3
Spades—A, 8, 5, 4, 3

Z B

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid five clubs and A and Y passed. B was in a peculiar position. The bid of five clubs undoubtedly indicated a freak hand, particularly in view of the many apparent tricks in B's hand. He was hardly strong enough, however, to bid five hearts and yet his hand was too strong to pass. The five club bid looked like a trap, but B had no option except to double.

Z passed and A should have bid five hearts. He should have made this bid rather than five spades, so that he could shift to five spades if the five hearts were doubled. His hand is badly distributed as a trick trumps, particularly in view of Z's five club bid. Therefore A should have figured that if B had a sound double, they would stand a good chance to make five hearts or five spades and so score game and rubber. On the other hand, they couldn't hope to defeat the five club bid more than a trick or so.

Unfortunately, however, A didn't properly consider these facts. He passed. Z played the hand at five clubs doubled and made a little slam. His hand was as follows:

Hearts—none
Clubs—A, Q, 10, 8, 7, 5, 3
Diamonds—A, 10, 8, 6, 5, 2
Spades—none

All that he lost was one club trick as his partner, Y, had a singleton diamond and three trumps.

Be on the lookout when your opponents make these shut-out bids and don't let them save game at a small expense or prevent you from doing your suit if you feel justified in doing so. A B could have made five odd in no trump or a little slam in hearts, so Z's preemptive bid, in this instance, was a big winner.

Answer to Problem No. 5

Hearts—K, 7, 6, 2
Clubs—Q, J, 9, 6
Diamonds—K, 7, 4
Spades—Q, J

Y B
Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid three spades and all passed. A opened the jack of diamonds which held the trick. He then led the ten which Z trumped in his own hand. How should Z now play the hand to make game? Solution: Z should lead a low spade, winning the trick in Y's hand with the jack. Y should then lead his last diamond, trumping in Z's hand with a low spade. Z should now lead another spade and win the trick in Y's hand with the queen. Y should now lead the queen of clubs which B should cover. Z then should win the trick with the ace.

Z should now lead three rounds of trumps, discarding two hearts from Y's hand and one club. B must discard one diamond, one heart and one club. He cannot discard more than one club or Z can lead a club and make two club tricks in Y's hand. Z can now force B in the lead by playing the three of hearts from his hand and the seven of hearts from Y's hand. B must win the trick with the ten of hearts. After B plays the ace of hearts, he must lead clubs up to Y's hand, thus giving Z game and rubber.

Note that B could have foreseen this force play and prevented it by discarding the ten of hearts. A's nine of hearts would, therefore, have prevented Z from forcing the lead in B's hand. This problem was given to show how to take advantage of an opponent's mistake. Some of the best plays made are possible because an opponent gives the opportunity; so if you get the chance, take advantage every time.

If diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead, can Y Z win all the tricks against any defense? Think this over and compare with the answer that will be given in the next article

HUGE SUM IS EXPENDED IN FLOOD WORK

Entire $24,000,000 Mississippi Appropriation Soon To Be Exhausted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The entire $24,000,000 appropriation for Mississippi river flood control work during the current year will have been exhausted by June 30, the war department announced in a bulletin which reported that the flood control program was "progressing rapidly."

In addition, the announcement said, allotments amounting to more than $400,000 have been made from the $1,000,000 emergency fund appropriated at the last session of congress for rescue work and maintenance and repair work on the tributaries of the Mississippi made necessary by the flood of 1927 and subsequent floods.

Thus far the work has been divided into four general classes, enlargement and strengthening of main river levees, bank revetment, dredging and preliminary work on other and more permanent features of the project, the bulletin stated.

$10,000,000 EXPENSE

Approximately $10,000,000 will be spent this fiscal year on levee work. To date, 55 contracts have been awarded for levee building, the war department said.

"Bank revetment work is being pushed vigorously at the places where it is most urgently needed," the bulletin continued, "and is necessarily scattered throughout the entire lower river. It is estimated that the cost of revetment work this year will be about $12,000,000. The satisfactory progress being made on bank revetment will enable the construction within a year or two of some contraction work to reduce the amount of maintenance dredging now required in the bars during the low water season to ensure a nine-foot channel for navigation.

LEVEE RIGHTS QUESTION

"This maintenance dredging is now in progress where necessary and involves an expenditure of about $1,000,000 per year.

"Plans are in course of preparation for the Bonnet Sarre spillway. Actual construction work on this part of the project must necessarily be deferred until the question into regard to levee rights of way and flowage rights are settled. The work of securing settlement of these questions

C. H. S. CREW HANDICAPPED FOR CONTEST

Frankfort Goes To Washington C. H. and Greenfield Meets Hillsboro.

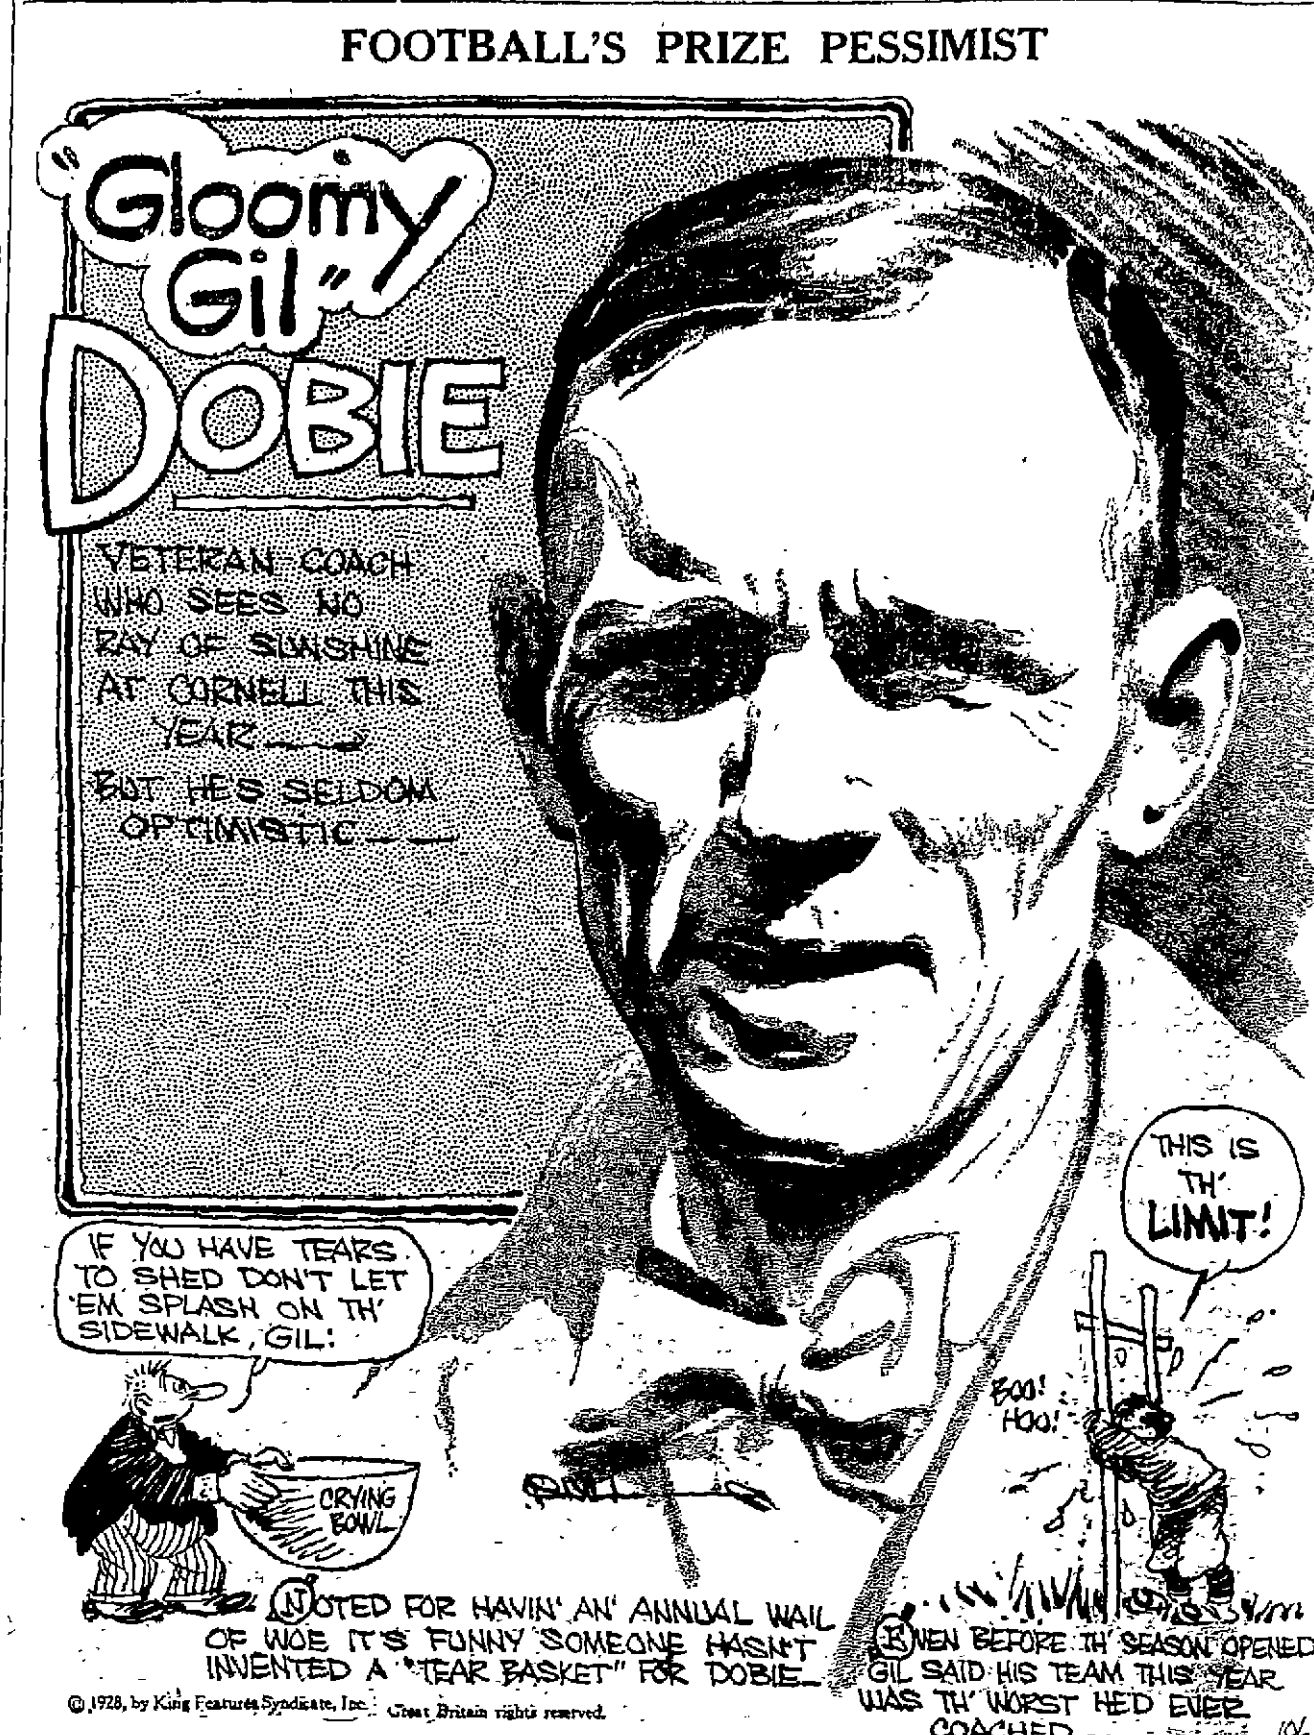

With a badly crippled team, the C. H. S. Tigers meet Clarksburg in a non-league game in the local gravel pit Friday at 3 p. m.

The local eleven has had some tough breaks but Coach Guthrie is sending it through some tough scrimmages and hoping the boys will come to the front. This is not a league game but will give the boys a taste of what is in the future for them as Greenfield defeated Clarksburg only 13 to 7, last week, in a non-league game.

TWO LEAGUE GAMES
Other league games on the fourth round of the S. C. O. league Friday, include Frankfort at Washington and Greenfield at Hillsboro. Due to a teachers' meeting in the southwest district, Chillicothe and Wilmington will battle it out Thursday afternoon, instead of the usual Friday, at Wilmington.

This will be the greatest game of the league week, comparing the two teams on scores of the past league games. Chillicothe and Washington tied 6-6, Washington defeated Greenfield 26 to 0, making Chillicothe 26 points the better than Greenfield. Wilmington defeated Greenfield 7-6. Chillicothe defeated Hillsboro 49 to 0. Frankfort beat Hillsboro 31-12. This leaves Chillicothe with 39 points better than Wilmington. Wilmington beat Circleville and Washington gave the Tigers a terrible walloping so far the rest of the season the C. H. S. Tigers are due for some sad defeats unless something unusual happens in the meantime.

REVENGE SOUGHT
Walnut twp. this week meets Williamsport at Williamsport Friday afternoon. Last week the Walnut team went down to a 26 to 0 defeat at the hands of Ashville. The Ashville boys showed great ability to block, run inter-ence and execute end runs. With additional practice the game promises to be a good one with plenty of excitement. Williamsport is seeking revenge on its home field for the defeat Walnut inflicted on them. Optimism is high in the camp west of the river from Bexley and the Ashville

Jack Heeter Drops From Team—Grant Returns To Backfield of Eleven.

The C. H. S. Tigers are certainly bucking tough luck this season, on all sides. Last week at Washington the Tigers backfield had only one experienced man toting the oval. This was due to the fact that Dumm and Grant were off the squad with injuries, received in practice last week. After Barnhill was injured the team lost its pep and has been on the downward trend.

This week Grant will be on the team but as he enters, another player leaves. This man is Jack Heeter, who has made a good showing in all the games. Jack will lose his letter after playing real football the first half of the season. His parents wished him to resign his position on the wing because of the number of members on the squad who have been injured.

Injuries and strict eligibility rules, which are enforced at Circleville high, has done much to hurt the team this year.

Friday, the injured C. H. S. eleven will meet Clarksburg at the local gravel pit. It promised to be a good game as last week Greenfield defeated them only 13 to 7.

Woodward is checking passes nicely.

Here are the NEW KOLSTER Radios!

You have heard about them undoubtedly. Now you may see them, listen to them, and operate them.

When you do see them you will feel that radio has come of age. The cabinets of the new Kolsters are examples of fine furniture, worthy of the fine sets they house.

When you hear the new Kolster you will realize that it is as fine as it looks. It is truly a musical instrument—not just another radio. Its reproduction is simply a reproduction of the original broadcasting—no note lost, no tone unduly stressed.

And only when you operate a Kolster do you experience that sense of absolute mastery of the air—the sensitiveness to distant broadcasting, the selectivity to exclude all but the one wanted station—that makes Kolster Radio everywhere so remarkably distinguished.

Tigers Will Play Clarksburg Eleven Friday

C. H. S. CREW HANDICAPPED FOR CONTEST

Frankfort Goes To Washington C. H. and Greenfield Meets Hillsboro.

With a badly crippled team, the C. H. S. Tigers meet Clarksburg in a non-league game in the local gravel pit Friday at 3 p. m.

The local eleven has had some tough breaks but Coach Guthrie is sending it through some tough scrimmage and hoping the boys will come to the front. This is not a league game but will give the boys a taste of what is in the future for them as Greenfield defeated Clarksburg only 13 to 7, last week, in a non-league game.

TWO LEAGUE GAMES
Other league games on the fourth round of the S. C. O. league Friday include Frankfort at Washington and Greenfield at Hillsboro. Due to a teachers' meeting in the southwest district, Chillicothe and Wilmington will battle it out Thursday afternoon, instead of the usual Friday, at Wilmington.

This will be the greatest game of the league week, comparing the two teams on scores of the past league games. Chillicothe and Washington tied 6-6, Washington defeated Greenfield 26 to 0, making Chillicothe 26 points the better than Greenfield. Wilmington defeated Greenfield 7-6. Chillicothe defeated Hillsboro 49 to 0. Frankfort beat Hillsboro 31-12. This leaves Chillicothe with 39 points better than Wilmington. Wilmington beat Circleville and Washington gave the Tigers a terrible walloping so for the rest of the season the C. H. S. Tigers are due for some sad defeats unless something unusual happens in the meantime.

REVENGE SOUGHT

Did You Ever Stop to Think

Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

EDGAR T. GLEESON, MANAGING EDITOR OF THE SAN FRANCISCO CALL, Says:

THAT the value of newspaper advertising is determined by three things: 1—Is it good for the advertiser? 2—Is it good for the consumer? 3—Is it good for the newspaper? If an advertising campaign fails in any of these particulars it will fail in all of them. Advertising copy that fails to produce its share of consumers is lacking in some prime essential. Advertising that seeks to foist an unworthy article upon the public cannot but result disastrously. And those newspapers or periodicals which undertake the selling of an article that is wanting in some particular, or whose campaign is based upon poor advertising copy only invite failure.

Henry Ford began his great career with a business maxim. "If an automobile was good for any one it was good for every one." He has put that into practice with the result, happy or otherwise, that the sun never sets on his well known product.

I have in mind the Ford advertising campaign, launched in the newspapers of the country this year, as the most ambitious and the most successful ever undertaken. Ford used newspaper space liberally. He had a product in which he put his full confidence. The ads, individually and serially, were ideally suited to the purpose of the great automobile manufacturer.

In the newspaper which I happen to represent, the appearance of each ad was hailed as a news event. People bought the issues of the paper to read the Ford advertising message as you would read the news of the day. And why not? What comes closer to a man's life today than the car he drives? Ford left other newer forms of advertising to his rivals. Perhaps he had in mind the observation of Marconi that radio would never supplant newspaper advertising because the latter was a printed record.

If you live in a community, make that community an ideal place to live. Advertise that community, not by empty promises or deception. But state hard, reasonable facts. State them in a way that others will realize what you have to offer. Build for the future in your community life by appealing to the higher instincts in men and women.

Only a very few of the masqueraders were recognized while all the others were unknown until the time for unmasking, which came immediately after an impromptu grand march.

The Mowery residence which is the old Ludwig home is so arranged that the grand march starting in the dining room, continued in a complete circle through the downstairs, giving everyone the opportunity to see all of the costumes. After this came the unmasking.

At 8 o'clock a covered dish supper was served buffet style, in the dining room, and the guests then ate at the small card tables that had been placed in the parlors and reception room. Mrs. Harry Jackson, Mrs. Emanuel Dresbach and Mrs. Scott Dresbach assisted the hostesses with the serving.
